NOT FROM THE DESK OF THE PRESIDENT

Mutual 16 President Joan Allston is recuperating from an accident in her home, according to her husband, Doug. All of Joan's friends and neighbors in the community are sending thoughts and prayers as Joan recovers and gets some much-needed rest. We certainly look forward to reading her comments in the next issue of Mutual 16 Matters.

Get well soon, Joan!

SMART COOKIES FEBRUARY RECIPE

BETSY DAVIS' NO-BAKE RECIPE FOR AUNT SOPHIE'S ORANGE BALLS

My Aunt Sophie would make this cookie with my sister and me when we would visit at Christmas time. It's simple and easy for kids of any age. (A great variation – Margarita Balls, substituting frozen margarita concentrate and a shot of tequila.)

INGREDIENTS

- □ 3 cups vanilla wafer crumbs [12 oz box crushed]
- □ 3 cups confectioners sugar
- □ ¾ cup [6 oz can] orange juice concentrate, thawed
- □ 1 stick melted butter
- \Box 3 cups shredded coconut

DIRECTIONS

- In a large mixing bowl, combine vanilla wafer crumbs, confectioners sugar, orange juice concentrate, and melted butter. Mix until well combined.
- Roll into small 1-inch balls. Immediately roll each ball in coconut.
- Chill in an airtight container. Keep refrigerated, serve in small portions, and replenish as needed.

NOTE: If you have a favorite recipe you'd like to share with your neighbors, please send it to the editor. These recipes give everyone an opportunity to practice for the 2022 Christmas Cookie Project (see the "Smart Cookies" article in December 2021 issue of Mutual 16 Matters).

M16 ART JAM

On a recent Saturday afternoon, a group of would-be artists got together to paint. Using supplies ordered from the internet (including paint, canvases, brushes, palettes and an instructional video), Van Gogh (Betsy Davis), Mary Cassatt (Jan Romanoff), Picasso (Janet Farr), and Grandma Moses (Paula Seebode) created masterpieces and had a lot of fun. Who knew Mutual 16 harbored an artists' colony?

GET TO KNOW YOUR NEIGHBORS BETTY LICHTENSTEIN 15424 PRINCE FREDERICK WAY

Betty Lichtenstein is a lifelong DC area native and at 96, the oldest M16 resident. Betty's mother died giving birth to her, so she was raised by her grandparents. Her grandparents had a mom-andpop grocery store in Southwest. They retired and moved to Northwest and Betty transferred from Central to Coolidge High School. She has seen a lot of Washington history. Eleanor Roosevelt attended Betty's elementary school May Day celebration. When Betty saw Eleanor, she was so excited that she got out of step for the complicated Maypole dance being performed for the First Lady. In 1939, Betty missed school to wave to King George VI and the Queen of England (parents of the current Queen Elizabeth) as they paraded down Pennsylvania Avenue. Betty was also at a Constitution Hall conference with President Kennedy pertaining to employment of the handicapped. When she worked at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, she regularly saw John Hinckley Jr. who tried to assassinate Ronald Reagan.

Betty met her husband, Harold (Hesh), toward the end of WW2. One of Betty's friends said it was a "patriotic duty" to visit that friend's cousin who was in the Army and was at Fort Belvoir hospital, recovering from an injury. Four months later they married. She says, "with his broken foot, he could not run away." In 1945, shortly after they married, the Army sent Hesh to Okinawa. When he left for Okinawa, Betty was pregnant. She gave birth to their first child while he was away. Hesh didn't see his firstborn daughter until she was 5 months old. After the war, housing was very hard to find so while Hesh went to George Washington University on the GI bill to become a pharmacist, Betty took care of their daughter in a converted Army barracks in SE DC which had only an ice box. Early every morning Betty had to be up and dressed to receive the iceman delivering the ice for the day.

In the early Fifties, they moved to Wheaton Woods in MD, and then in the early Sixties to Aspen Hill. They had two more children. In the mid-Sixties, when the children were older, Betty went back to work. She worked at the Department of Health and Human Services in several capacities always in the field of Mental Health.

For over 40 years, Betty has volunteered for Recovery International, leading self-help groups for those challenged by mental health problems. In 2003, she received the Path of Achievement Award, from the Montgomery County executive at the time, for her volunteer work as a senior.

Physical fitness is important to Betty. She has been active from the beginning, taking dancing lessons as a child (hence the May Day incident). Even when she was working, raising children and volunteering, all at the same time, she made sure she went to the gym, took exercise classes, or at least exercised along with Jack LaLanne on the TV.

Betty and Hesh liked to travel and took Russian and Spanish classes at Montgomery College. Hesh retired in 1992. Betty retired in 1995. They moved to LW in 2004 to get away from stairs but also because they were quite familiar with Leisure World as Betty's two uncles, with whom she grew up, lived here. Long before they moved, she and Hesh came over to participate in the Comedy and Humor Club. Once living here, they took full advantage of what LW has to offer. They were members of the Democratic Club, the Yiddish Club, and used the fitness center. Betty has taken many exercise classes and done line-dancing here. She says that is why she can walk unaided to this day.

She and Hesh were married 69 years when he passed way in 2014. Two years ago, tragedy struck again when Betty's youngest child, Joyce, passed away. "She was all heart," Betty says of Joyce, "No one should outlive their child." But Betty remains strong and positive. A final deep insight: Betty says that most of the time, after she watches the news, she immediately gets out her joke books and listens to music to lighten her mood. Betty has a disarming sense of humor. And she is very wise.
